

Interrogation Of Prisoners Is Postponed

Korean Repatriation Commission Tangled In Rules Interpretation

PANMUNJOM (U)—The Korean Repatriation Commission, apparently wrangling over rules, today postponed until as late as Thursday the start of Allied and Red efforts to coax home prisoners refusing repatriation.

No specific new date was set for the start of prisoner interviews, a phase of the truce which an Allied spokesman called "the psychological battle of our time."

Agrees to Delay

The U. N. Command agreed to postponing the start of interviews, scheduled to begin Friday or Saturday.

It was not clear whether the neutral commission agreed to an Allied demand that the delay be deducted from the 90-day interview period, which the U. N. command said must be counted from the time all unrepatriated prisoners are in neutral custody.

But a commission spokesman's statement that "it is understood" the 90 days will begin on the actual starting date of interviews would indicate that the Allied position may have been rejected.

During the 90-day interview period, 22,600 former prisoners of the U. N. and 359 prisoners captured by the Reds—including 23 Americans—are to be questioned by their original side.

Details Not Complete

The five-nation neutral commission, composed of India, Sweden, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia and Poland, said the delay was necessary because "arrangements and facilities" for the interviews had not been completed.

The commission reportedly has been trying to reconcile widely different recommendations submitted by the Allies and Reds on rules to govern the operation.

There are these main points of conflict between the Allied and Communist views:

1. The Communists insist on interviews with individual prisoners; the Allies demand groups of 25.

2. The U. N. Command wants the prisoner to have the right to refuse to listen to the explanations; the Communists demand that all prisoners listen.

The Allies object to individual interviews in the belief that a prisoner appearing before Red explain-

Gulf Coast Set For Hurricane, Season's Sixth

NEW ORLEANS (U)—The season's sixth hurricane, gaining in both size and intensity, lashed through the Gulf of Mexico early today about 450 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

The day-old storm was moving in a northwesterly direction with winds estimated at 90 miles an hour near its center, and was expected to continue along this general course with a slow turn to the north.

The New Orleans weather Bureau said in an advisory at 5 a. m. (EST) that the hurricane, named Florence for the sixth letter in the alphabet, was traveling at about 14 miles per hour but was expected to pick up more speed as it roared through the Gulf.

The weather bureau said gales extend 200 miles to the northeast and half that distance to the west and south of center. Ships in the path of the storm were advised to exercise caution and small craft from the upper Texas coast through the Florida Keys were urged to remain in port.

Winds along the Gulf Coast east of Grand Isle, La., to Panama City, Fla., likely will reach gale strength by early Saturday, the weather bureau said.

The northward turn in the hurricane's course was expected to develop during the next 12 to 24 hours.

Hurricane Florence developed yesterday in the Caribbean about 60 miles southwest of the western tip of Cuba. It was still too early for forecasters to predict where the storm would strike a coastline.

VETS FLEE FROM FLAMING PLANE. Seven crew members and 37 Korean war veteran passengers fled safely from this flaming Caribbean-American Airlines plane after a belly landing in a stubble field near Miles City, Mont. Capt. James Dillon, Burbank, Calif., the pilot, had stopped at Miles City for refueling only minutes before but was forced to turn back when an engine caught fire. The ship, a non-scheduled liner, was taking the veterans to Baltimore and Boston and had started for Kansas City shortly before the forced landing.

Will Weigh Circumstances

POW's Who Turned Red To Get Full Investigation

WASHINGTON (U)—The Defense Department says it will investigate the circumstances under which some former American war prisoners in Korea reportedly made false confessions or turned Red captors.

The department, Secretary Wilson announced last night, "is using every effort to investigate and establish what happened to these men while they were prisoners, the punishments and sufferings they endured, what false confessions some of them may have made under duress and the effect of the actions of some of them on their fellow prisoners."

Wilson's View

Commenting that only a few American prisoners were swayed by Communist pressure and abuse while the vast majority resisted, Wilson said:

"We do not as a general principle condone those who made false confessions contrary to the interests of their country, or whose actions caused their fellow prisoners added misery. Such cases will be carefully and sympathetically examined by the services concerned to ascertain whether in any of them there has been an unreasonable failure to measure up to the standard of individual conduct which is expected even of a prisoner of war or deviations from standards of behavior prescribed by law."

Except to say the inquiries would be made on an individual basis, would be just and fair and "in line with established facts and evidence and the rules, regulations released from service after their and laws" relating to military conduct.

Typhoon Rips Indo-China Coast, Hundreds Dead

SAIGON, Indo-China (U)—Several hundred Indo-Chinese were believed dead and several hundred thousands homeless in a typhoon today which struck a 90-mile stretch of the central Indo-China coast.

The destruction was centered on the ancient Annamite capital of Hue, 325 miles north of Saigon. The American economic mission estimated that 90 per cent of the population of Hue, a town of 25,000, and the surrounding area were homeless.

100 Register for Conference

Ohio Educators Gather Here for Zone Meeting

Approximately 100 educators and lay persons from 21 Ohio cities were registering this morning at the Hotel Harding for the annual zone conference of the Associated Public School Systems being held in Marion today and tomorrow.

Each registrant was given a packet of informative material about the conference theme, "Measuring the Quality of Education," and about the city of Marion. Printed on the envelope containing this material was a map of Marion indicating the locations of the five schools where various phases of the conference are scheduled to be conducted.

BUSINESS SESSION started at 10 a. m. in the hotel ballroom.

France Offers To End War In Indochina

Willing To Talk With Reds; Suggests Korea Parley Be Broadened

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—France today offered to negotiate with the Communists for peace in embattled Indochina and suggested the projected Korean political conference be broadened to take on the task.

Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann also told the U. N.'s 60-nation General Assembly France would do all in its power to have the conference invite India to join in its work.

Schumann said if the Korean conference didn't get around to the Indochinese problem, it might be taken up on a diplomatic level afterwards.

Would Ease Tension

Such a negotiated peace between French union forces in Indochina and the Communist-backed rebels "would make it possible to look forward to the return of more normal conditions of international relations in Asia," he said.

The French diplomat said he had heard "unofficial declarations" from the "two powers which inspire and arm the Vietnamese rebels" that they were disposed to negotiate an end to the war.

This was a clear reference to the Soviet Union and Communist China.

He then declared "It remains for them to prove that these ambiguous hints are not mere propaganda" and suggested that the peace talks begin during or immediately after the Korean conference.

France's Turn To Speak

France, last of the Western Big Three to speak in the policy debate, was on today's speaking list along with Middle East countries which have been loudest in the attacks on French policy in North Africa.

With less than 20 countries left to speak, U. N. officials hoped to get the formal statements out of the way by Monday, then start the political committees to work on such issues as Korea, Palestine, disarmament and Morocco-Tunisia.

Big Four meetings—to seek agreements on Germany, Austria, Korea and other issues disturbing the world, have been urged by delegates from countries with wide political and geographical distribution.

Iceland's Thor Thors, summed up the argument for the Assembly late yesterday.

Quotes British

He quoted recent statements by President Eisenhower, Britain's Prime Minister Churchill, and Russia's Premier Georgi Malenkov to support his contention that disputed issues could be settled.

"When they all seem to be seeking to get together, why don't they?" Thors asked. "That the world must know, it demands to know."

"The time has come to face facts. When we hear, day after day, over the radio and read in newspapers, that over 80 leading cities and centers of population here in America are being singled out as targets for atomic attacks,

8 Million Seek Cover in N. Y. A-Bomb Alert

NEW YORK (U)—Eight million New Yorkers hurried for shelter at 8:30 a. m. EST today as sirens throughout the city signalled a practice atom bomb alert.

In theory, two atom bombs landed in downtown Manhattan and in Queens in the city's biggest civil defense exercise.

All automobiles on the streets were forced to halt during the 15-minute drill. Pedestrians were directed to shelter areas by civil defense wardens. Workers in office buildings and residents of apartment houses fled to pre-designated safety areas.

Train, airplane and subway service continued in operation, most other activity in the metropolis came to a halt.

Radio stations in New York and in an area extending to Freeport, N. Y., and Morristown and New Brunswick, N. J., switched to "Conelrad," a technique to prevent their beams from being used for navigation by enemy planes.

Television and frequency modulation stations went off the air during the alert.

The drill had been announced in advance and a number of persons hurried off the streets before it began.

Times Square—the "Crossroads of the World"—was unnaturally silent and empty soon after the alert began.

It took eight minutes to clear LaGuardia Airport of about 7,500 passengers and employees.

Student Held to Wyandot County Jury in Slaying of Girl; Reveals No Emotion

MURDER WEAPON AND CAMPUS RENDEZVOUS SHACK. Wyandot County Sheriff Dean McAllister holds a heavy four-foot-long iron bar believed to be the murder weapon used in the brutal slaying of Cynthia Pfeil, sweetheart of Roy Schinagle, who was charged with first degree murder in Upper Sandusky. At the right is the interior of the shack on the Ohio Wesleyan University campus at Delaware where the girl met Schinagle the night she was slain.

Youth Waives Examination In JP Court

Committed to Jail Without Bond; Lawyer Named To Defend Him

UPPER SANDUSKY (U)—Defense Attorney Ray H. Stansberry waived preliminary hearing this morning for Roy R. Schinagle Jr., 19-year-old Ohio Wesleyan University sophomore, charged with the first degree murder of his 19-year-old sweetheart, Cynthia Pfeil of White Plains, N. Y.

Stansberry requested that Schinagle be bound over to the Wyandot County grand jury, which is scheduled to be called within a week.

Schinagle, who has been "dead pan" throughout the investigation of the brutal killing, with the exception of the time when he viewed the battered body of the girl he said he was to have married, walked across the street from the county jail here to the office of Justice of Peace Loren Schoenberger.

Escorted by Sheriff

Dressed in gray flannel trousers, a corduroy jacket and argyle socks, typical college wear, young Schinagle was escorted by Wyandot County Sheriff Dean McAllister. He entered the office, staring straight ahead, sat down at the table, passed his eyes over the papers in front of Justice Schoenberger. Schoenberger read the charge, explained what a preliminary hearing is and asked for any pleas.

Stansberry, a 49-year-old Upper Sandusky attorney retained by the youth's parents, asked that the youth be bound over to the grand jury. Schinagle will not be released on bail since the charge is first degree murder. Stansberry said that bond might be set if the grand jury reduces the indictment from first to second degree murder.

Returned to Jail

The slim-sandy-haired youth was then returned to the county jail where he occupies a large cell on the second floor. There was no adjoining cells. Contents of the room include a metal cot with mattress, two chairs and a bath.

Yesterday, young Wyandot County Sheriff McAllister was in Cleveland gathering evidence against Schinagle. He was scheduled to return to Delaware today with a permanent magnetic compass to search for the watch and identification bracelet which Schinagle said he removed from Miss Pfeil's wrists after he had killed her. Asked if the jewelry had any particular significance in the case, McAllister said the prosecution needs every bit of evidence it can find in

H-Bomb Takes Edge Off Tax Reduction Talk

Administration Weighs Need for Economy Against U. S. Security

WASHINGTON (U)—A Republican and a Democratic senator today voiced diametrically opposed views on whether taxes can be cut without impairing America's defense against awesome new weapons.

"This is no time to drop our guard," said Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo.), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He pictured the Eisenhower administration as pinched between "golden campaign promises" to reduce taxes and its responsibility to keep the nation secure.

Sees Chance for Cut

But Sen. Williams (R-De), a member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said he believes that, barring an unforeseen emergency, taxes can be lowered and the budget balanced without endangering national defense.

They expressed their views in separate interviews against the backdrop of yesterday's three-hour closed-door session of the National Security Council. The top strategy group, without disclosing any decisions, discussed defense plans in the light of Russia's recent claim of mastery over the dread hydrogen bomb.

While no information about the meeting was released, it became known that the H-bomb—once widely considered technically impossible—may be so cheap and simple that any nation could quickly produce an arsenal of them.

Seek New Technique

Until recently, the supposition has been that no hydrogen bomb could be set off without the unearthly heat of an atomic bomb to trigger it. But American bomb makers are now said to be working on a new technique which does away with such a requirement.

No details, of course, could be disclosed. However, it was understood the basic facts involved were considered in early atomic work some 20 years ago—and presumably are available to Russia and other nations.

An assessment of Soviet progress, based on what is known or guessed at, shows (1) Russia has set the stage for giant scientific strides, (2) Russian physicists are left pretty much to their own devices by Russian political commissars and (3) Russian-made weapons captured in Korea were far better in design and manufacture than expected.

First Step to CIO Merger

AFL Ready To Approve 'No Raiding' Agreement

ST. LOUIS (U)—The AFL's annual convention scheduled a busy wind-up session today with a "no-raiding" agreement with the CIO due for delegate approval.

The agreement tentatively worked out by AFL and CIO leaders to outlaw "raids" between the rival federations requires approval of both the AFL and CIO conventions before it becomes effective next Jan. 1.

"Raiding" is the union term for efforts to get groups of already organized workers to switch allegiance from one union to another. The pact is regarded by union leaders as a necessary first step toward an AFL-CIO merger.

An important qualification of the agreement, which was expected to

Police Report Two Burglaries

Cash, Valuables Taken From House, Grocery

Two break-ins with theft of various articles worth a total of some $85 were reported today by Marion police.

Sometime between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m. yesterday the residence of Mrs. Minnie Hunt of 685 E. Farming St. was entered through a rear door and a piggy bank containing an estimated $40 in coins and a $25 wrist watch were taken. The wrist watch was taken from a bedroom, which was also ransacked. Mrs. Hunt said she thought the rear door was locked when she left the house earlier in the afternoon, but police could find no signs the door was forced open.

At 8:40 a. m. this morning, Mrs. Antonio Piacentino called police and reported the Piacentino Grocery Store at 170 Short St. was broken into sometime after 9 last night. She reported that several bottles of wine, some stockings and seven cartons of cigarettes were taken. Total value was about $20. Police investigation showed entrance was gained by climbing to a roof over a one-story portion of the store at the rear and breaking in a second floor window.

The United Appeals campaign, its member agencies and the accomplishments of each were reviewed for Marion Kiwanians, when they met for their weekly luncheon meeting Thursday at Hotel Harting.

Speaker was William Cowles, the chairman of the speakers' bureau for the campaign.

Following his talk, a question and answer period was conducted, and assisting in answering inquiries were Cutler McGrew, general chairman for the campaign, Fred

Hanover, executive secretary, Harold Fratch, a member of the speakers' bureau, and Robert Fay, chairman of the industrial division.

Cowles told his audience the United Appeals fund campaign will get under way at 7:30 a. m. Oct. 12 and continue through Oct. 29 with approximately $170,000 as the goal.

He explained three points which make it advisable to have a United Appeals campaign. They are because it consolidates the appeals for money, it is a time saver for the workers, and it reduces campaign costs.

Cowles said it is a campaign which requires everybody's support and he believes it will go over the top because it is built on determination.

Introduced as a new member of the club was Col. John M. Thayer.

Guests included Fred Hanover, executive secretary of the Community Foundation, John Meyer of East St. Louis, Mo., Ralph Howard of Litchfield Park, Ariz., and William Fretz of Marion.

Traffic Signs Ignored In Chinatown, Too

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—East is East and West is West and nobody pays any attention to traffic signs.

The San Francisco police department, intensifying an anti-jaywalking campaign, erected two new pedestrian warning signs in famed Chinatown. In Chinese characters the signs warned "Don't cross the street here."

However, most Chinese just read the signs, then crossed the street anyway—just like their Occidental brothers are doing elsewhere in the city.

Rising Population Calls for Increased Farm Production

Farmers will have to learn to produce more if the nation is to continue to be fed and clothed. The U. S. Department of Agricultural reports. According to Census Bureau findings, there will be 190 million people in the United States by 1975. This compares to 160 million who now inhabit the country.

A recent trend shows fewer people taking up farming as an occupation. At the present time, each farmer in the country is supporting himself and 15 other persons by his produce.

If all trends continue, by 1975, each farmer will be supporting himself and 24 other persons. Despite the surpluses now on hand, the food supply will be inadequate in the next two decades unless farmers can learn to get larger crops from their land. Dr. Byron T. Shaw, chief scientist for the U. S. Department of Agriculture warns that the food situation may become critical within 10 years unless more research is done.

Legion Would Fly Mothers to Korea

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A legionnaire says the government should fly to Korea the mothers of 23 American prisoners listed by a Communist correspondent as having refused repatriation.

Harry Myers, director of special events for the Los Angeles County Council of the American Legion, said last night he was urging National Commander Art Conell in Indianapolis to put the matter before the government.

"It would be a tremendous psychological victory for us over the Reds if the mothers were able to talk their sons into returning to freedom," Myers said.

Scampi With Lemon Sauce Colorful Dish

There are many different kinds of scampi—but they're all shrimp dishes, fun to make and good to eat.

Here's a recipe for Lemon Scampi which is a variation on the most popular form of this recipe, shrimp broiled in garlic butter. This recipe has a generous amount of lemon juice added to the garlic sauce. It makes a beautiful dish, too—rosy shrimp with curled-up tails, garnished with broiled tomato slices and served on a platter which contrasts in color with the pink and red of the shrimp and tomatoes.

Ingredients: 1 pound shrimp fresh or frozen, 1/2 pound (1/2 cup) butter or margarine, juice of 1 lemon, 1 clove garlic, minced fine, teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt.

Remove shell from shrimp, leaving tail shell on. Cut down back of shrimp and remove sand vein. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add remaining ingredients. Toss shrimp in butter until shrimp are well coated. Turn into a broiler pan and broil 3 inches from source of heat about 5 minutes. If desired broil tomatoes in same pan with shrimp. Cut tomatoes in halves. Place a pat of butter on each half and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk on United Appeals

Eighty members of the Kiwanis Club begin the sale of apples on downtown street corners this afternoon. As part of their program for National Kids Day sponsored by the Kiwanis, the men will seek donations for the benefit of underprivileged children in Marion and Marion County.

They will be on the corners from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. tonight and from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday. Last year the group raised $1,500 which was spent for the care of needy children in the area.

In charge of the sale this year is Ray Reidenbaugh, chairman of the projects and promotions committee. Working on the committee with him are Homer D. Cole, L. K. McGinnis, Roy Abel, Max

Birnbaum, C. Ray Campbell, Richard Dune, Ross Jump, and R. E. French.

Jack Lautenslager, publicity director for the campaign, said today that persons who received apples in the mail still have time to make their contributions. The apples were mailed last week to groups and individuals in the area.

Letter Carriers in Favor Of Boosting Mail Rate

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The head of the AFL National Association of Letter Carriers said last night he hopes the Eisenhower administration will have the courage to ask Congress to raise the present 3-cent first class mail rate to 4 cents.

William C. Doherty told a meeting of local members of the union the 3-cent rate is "as antiquated as the horse and buggy." He said the rate in raise is the only hope postal employees have for a pay increase.

Afflicted by Jealousy

Family Trouble Bothers Neurotic Dog

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U)—Dogs often become neurotic when a child is born into a family in which they have ruled as the pampered pets. The jealous dog feels he has lost his place.

This was the problem worrying Abner and Elsie Whimzy, who were expecting a blessed event. How could they best break the news to loyal old Towser, their famous talking dog?

Abner finally tried psychology. After Towser fell asleep, he gently put a doll in bed with him. The next morning Abner found chewed portions of the doll scattered all around the room.

Abner decided then the best thing to do was to talk the whole thing out—man to dog. So he called Towser into the living room, and the following conversation took place:

Abner—Sit down, Towser. I've got something I want to tell you. Towser (leaping brazenly upon the sofa)—Okay, boss. Now what have I done right?

Abner—This is no joking matter. Why did you tear up that doll?

Towser—It was an uncontrollable impulse. It reminded me of a baby, and I hate babies.

Abner—Don't you think that's a pretty neurotic attitude for a grown dog?

Towser—So I'm neurotic. A baby just brings out the beast in me. After all, education is only skin-deep, isn't it? There's a savage lurking in all of us.

Abner (hesitating)—Yes, but we must learn to curb our impulses. Look, Towser, you know I wouldn't do anything in the world to hurt you, don't you? You know I'm your best friend, and—

Towser—Boss, you got the script wrong. A dog is man's best friend, and any day you act like a man, you know I'm right there backing you up like a buddy. Is you got bad news, let's hear it.

Abner—Well, Elsie and I are expecting a little bundle of joy from heaven.

Towser—Let's bring the conversation down to earth, boss. What's in the bundle—money?

Abner—No. Now don't lose your temper, Towser. We are bringing another little one into our home.

Towser (forgetting himself and beginning to growl)—What, a puppy? I'll tell you right now—this house isn't big enough for two dogs.

Abner—No, not a puppy. A baby—a sweet, nice little baby.

Towser (barking wildly)—A baby, boss? That's even worse. What have I done to deserve this? How have I let you down?

Abner—It isn't that. Nothing could ever take your place in our hearts. But we became lonesome for the patter of little feet.

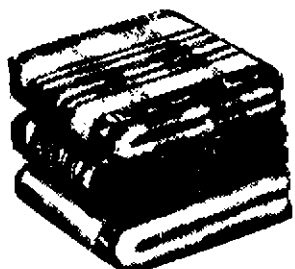

Towser—What's wrong with the patter of little paws? Sometimes I don't think I understand people. Is this a talking baby?

Abner—No, not at first.

Towser—Well, that's a relief. I can't stand baby talk. But why would you want a non-talking baby when you already got the only talking dog in the neighborhood is beyond me.

Abner—Towser, old pal, this thing is bigger than both of us.

Towser—Will this baby insist that we look at those dreadful cowboy shows on the television set?

Abner—No. But I do want you and the baby to be real pals. And if the baby pulls your tail or ears, I want you to put up with it. Understand?

Towser (shuddering)—Oh, their awful clammy hands.

Abner—Everything will go on just as before. Only one thing. You can't sit on the sofa anymore. You'll get hairs on it.

Towser (after brooding)—Just one, boss.

Abner—Yes?

Towser—How can I get a transfer out of this mixed-up outfit?

Jordan Project Scored By Third Arab Nation

BEIRUT, Lebanon (U)—A third Arab country, Lebanon, joined Syria and Jordan today in demanding that the United Nations halt an Israeli project for diverting the Jordan River for a hydroelectric project.

Israel rejected yesterday a request by Norwegian Maj. Gen. Ussar Henrich, chief of staff of the U.N. truce team in Palestine, to call off the project. The work continued today, reports from Tel Aviv said.

Bennike made his plea after Syria and Jordan had protested the project would dry up some of their land.

Beirut newspapers demanded today the Arab collective security pact be invoked if Israel persists with the work.

100 Per Cent for or Against

Vice President Nixon learned when he appeared before the AFL convention what President Eisenhower must know, too, by this time. The hierarchy of unionism has no use for a political party it cannot dominate.

There is no such thing in politics as a splitting of differences with the bosses of organized labor. A political party which is not 100 per cent for everything they want is assumed to be 100 per cent against them.

The Republican party should waste no time wheeling union bosses.

Whoever it is inside the Eisenhower administration who keeps dreaming of a deal with the bosses that will wean them away from the left wing of the Democratic party should be waked up.

The Eisenhower administration can and already has weaned away a substantial minority of the working people of the United States who belong to unions—and they are the ones who count at the polls on election day.

If some hocus-pocus put all the union executives in a political bed with the Eisenhower administration, the net result of that strange bedfellowship probably would be a loss of votes for Republican candidates at the next election.

Unionism in the United States does not belong to the union executives who have frequently made a travesty of its purposes. It belongs to rank-and-file union members, who think and vote as they please. Their political support is not for sale through the men who run the unions—and who sometimes run them into the ground.

Bitter-Sweet Reassurance

Treasury Secretary Humphrey's reassurance that excess profits taxes will be discontinued after Dec. 31 and income taxes will be cut 10 per cent does not add up to a tax-reduction policy.

It adds up to a tax-adjustment policy—and this is the big new thought about taxes.

The Eisenhower administration is committed to make tax adjustments. As long as the Federal spending rate stays high it will be unable to dole out the sweet fruits of tax reduction.

However, some sweetness will be found in the adjustments, both those provided for in laws already on the books and those to be made in the future.

Any decrease in personal income taxes will be popular with individuals. Any decrease in corporate income taxes will be popular with corporations. But there is to be no net decrease in Federal income. And that will not be popular.

There must be new revenue to replace whatever is lost. About the only thing left in doubt about the source of the new revenue is what it will be called.

How it will work is now pretty clearly laid down by the realities of revenue-gathering. It will be a tax based on the turnover of national wealth—the rate at which goods move from production into consumption.

Sometime before the presidential budget message is due next January, the question of tax adjustment will be opened for nationwide discussion. There is to be no net reduction of taxes, but there is destined to be a rearrangement of revenue sources.

Life Wouldn't Be the Same

The reshuffling of major-league baseball franchises that began with the Braves and will continue with the Browns is a reminder to fans that their enjoyment is tied to a business with problems like any other business.

Organized baseball has been a handy perennial. But it is not indestructible. The Braves and Browns aren't the only teams which have run out of customers at the same old stands.

Changing circumstances may make continuation of big-league baseball impossible some day, or force readjustments so radical the now-familiar pattern of 18 teams split into two major leagues will be shattered.

Life, of course, would go on, but not as usual. Last April we looked forward to the beginning of another season. This September we look backward, with gratitude for a game that has brought so much enjoyment to so many for so long.

None Better

Those of us who like fall weather best do not really need to go into rhapsodies about the matter. Our favorite season speaks for itself. But we rhapsodize anyway.

The atmosphere is clean and crisp. Nature has ceased to be an awkward girl without poise or maturity and has attained the dignity that goes with her historic role of motherhood.

Our is a season for philosophy to go with the romancing, which is carried on more appropriately in autumn than at any other time. It is a season for being in harmony — not like June when sounds are dissonant but like October when sounds are consonant and crystal, like the tinkling of thin ice being broken in a watering trough on a frosty morning.

There's no season better than fall.

Without it, the North Temperate zone would be too cold in winter, too hot in summer and too watery in springtime for endurance.

Confusion Avoidable

Press Reaction Surprises Eisenhower, Humphrey

Government-by-headline seems to be a rather painful experience sometimes — if one sympathizes at all with the people in business, industry and finance who have the daylight scared out of them by a speech by the President of the United States which they read in the morning papers, only to be followed in the afternoon papers by a prompt reassurance from the secretary of the treasury that there was really no cause for alarm.

The sequence of events and the facts thereon are interesting to examine as an example of how piters are often produced in the business community.

On Monday afternoon of this week — Several hours before President Eisenhower was scheduled to deliver his address in Boston over the radio and television — copies were made available at the White House to all members of the press.

There was ample opportunity to read the text and discover, somewhere along about the middle of the address, a startling paragraph which spoke of how the enemy was "equipped with the most terrible weapons of destruction" and warning the world that for an American "There is no sacrifice — no labor, no tax, no service — too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

What did this mean? The reporters had plenty of time to ask the President both before and after he delivered the speech whether it meant that the scheduled repeal of certain tax rates on January 1 next had been decided against by the administration or whether these tax reductions of a sudden had become matters of doubt and conjecture.

But no such information was obtained from the morning papers, either because the reporters didn't ask the President or because the White House staff didn't find out his views for the reporters, if they did present such queries.

Actually, Mr. Eisenhower must have been talking of what he would recommend to Congress if the Soviets forced America and the free world into a war.

During a world war, of course, everybody knows there is hardly a limit on taxes or controls.

If Mr. Eisenhower had anything else but such a theoretical emergency in mind when he spoke in Boston, it certainly was unknown to any member of his Cabinet.

Now let's switch to Washington. Secretary Humphrey, for several days had been working on a speech he was to deliver on Tuesday of this week before the annual convention of the American Bankers Association. On Monday evening, like a dutiful cabinet officer, he interrupted his labor on his own speech and, with his aides surrounding him at his home, watched and heard the President on television.

Nothing that the President said seemed to Mr. Humphrey afterward to be in conflict with what he himself intended to say the next morning on taxes, and he wasn't at all conscious of any reason to revise that section of his address to the bankers.

But the next morning, when Sec. Humphrey read the newspapers and saw the headlines emphasizing the doubt that had been raised by the President's reference to taxes, he was surprised.

He was sure Mr. Eisenhower had not intended to create any such doubts about the tax program for next January. He decided to call the President anyway and read to him over the telephone the tax section of his proposed speech to the American Bankers Association.

The President approved the passage at once and told the secretary the speech was right on the button.

It will be recalled that the secretary emphasized to the bankers that the planned reductions for January 1 were the same as had been announced weeks ago.

The Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning headlines displayed Mr. Humphrey's prediction of tax reductions — which would not have been front-page news but for the doubts expressed in Tuesday morning's papers. The Stock Market, instead of taking a nose-dive Tuesday afternoon, actually started upward.

It appears that the President himself was somewhat surprised, too, by the headlines about his Boston speech, because he was talking only about the extent of the sacrifice that would be made if a war crisis developed.

If that information had been obtained by the press on Monday, some nervous hours for the business men of America would have been avoided.

If the matter had been drawn out for an amount of diplomacy or loans or gifts will avail so long as influential British papers continue to publish distorted views about American political life.

A year ago, I commented on the false impressions sent overseas concerning, first, the Taft-Eisenhower contest for the nomination and, later, the Stevenson-Eisenhower campaign for the presidency.

After the election I wrote an article for The Freeman in which I gave chapter and verse to substantiate my charge. The publications which I singled out for criticism were the highly influential London Times, Manchester Guardian and the weekly Economist.

I found nothing in the London Daily Telegraph to criticize. In fact, that newspaper shows clearly that the British can have the truth if they get accurate, informed and unbiased reporting.

To illustrate what I mean by distorted reporting, I use as a random but characteristic sample the "American Survey" and "American Notes" in the issue of The Economist for September 19.

First, there is an article dated London, Washington, about the Durkin resignation. It takes precisely the position that Durkin himself and his partisan labor and Democratic friends would take.

Here is a sample:

"In fact, the labor program worked out by Mr. Durkin and the White House, which caused such alarm in the right wing of the Republican party, was not the surrender to the trade unions which the frightened conservatives imagined. Many of the changes in the Taft-Hartley Act suggested in the 'lost message' of July 31 had been approved by the late Sen. Taft."

True, some changes had been approved by Taft, but the ones which he probably never heard about were what made the difference between a mild revision and a sellout to the labor leaders.

25 Years Too Late

By TRUMAN TWILL

Then there was the mother who raised her boy to be a TV panelist.

When the little boy was just a tad she began to teach him how to smirk and leer at the great unseeing audience, to cock his little head cooly on one side then the other and to radiate an air of knowing a darned sight more than he really did.

He was coached in the fine art of speaking with a slight stammer, to convey the impression he was so choiceful of curiosity his words couldn't get out of him without rubbing against one another.

They brought in experts from the bistros to coach him in the double entendre delivered dead-pan style, complete with a slight pause at the end while the sooty meat and egg dangled on the cackles in the front row.

They kept the kid in the oven with the heat turned down low a half hour each day to build up his resistance to the floodlights which one day would illuminate his way to fame.

He was schooled long and hard in the courtroom technique of asking questions which would reveal what was on his mind without revealing enough to cause him to find work in some less demanding occupation than TV panelist.

He was taught to yank at his ear, run an exploratory finger up the side of his nose, paw at his chin and tug at his collar, to show the great unseen audience he was being as folksy as a homogenous apple, instead of as nervous as a cat in an aviary.

The little fellow was shown how to expose all his teeth at once in a burst of dental radiance, to show how friendly and amiable he felt about being privileged to make a living in this wholly unnatural way.

He was instructed in the technique of looking bright-eyed and engrossed even when bored stiff and trained especially in the technique of never letting the camera catch him in the middle of a yawn.

There were lessons in enunciation and phrasing, also, in listening. There were special instructions about makeup, posture, the choice of the right tie, how to wear his hair and how to gloss over his ignorance.

Then, just as he was ready to seek employment as a panelist like a condemned house in a tornado, He was ready to run in a race that wasn't going to be run—ever.

So they kept him in a room on the third floor and never mentioned his name. They spoke of him only in whispers, and he stayed up there and lived all the rest of his life, smirking, leering, cocking his head, radiating savoir faire, twinking his eyes, maintaining his composure, making little remarks that could be interpreted two ways, enunciating clearly with a slight stammer, listening closely and asking people who didn't exist except in his own imagination whether they were thinking about something a man might wear from the neck up and if it ever had been alive.

Poor little kid. He's been born 25 years too late. He was just a goof.

British Given Distorted Views of U. S.

By Raymond Moley

My fellow commentator, David Lawrence, has called attention to the great need for getting before the British people a true, rather than a biased, picture of American politics.

His suggestion is extremely well taken for no amount of diplomacy or loans or gifts will avail so long as influential British papers continue to publish distorted views about American political life.

A year ago, I commented on the false impressions sent overseas concerning, first, the Taft-Eisenhower contest for the nomination and, later, the Stevenson-Eisenhower campaign for the presidency.

New England Battleground

By JAY G. HAYDEN

In picking Boston as the site of his first definitely partisan speech since taking office, President Eisenhower chose the region and particular state where the Republicans gained their most sensational gains presidentially in 1948.

But, also, New England, particularly Massachusetts, is where the Republicans may have hard work holding their own in the congressional election next year.

Although Eisenhower carried every state in New England, decisively, the Republicans gained only one House seat in that region, losing one in Massachusetts and gaining one in Connecticut.

In that election Massachusetts and Rhode Island chose Republican presidential electors for the first time since 1924. Connecticut and New Hampshire, since 1932, had gone Republican for president only in 1948.

In 1948 two senators are to be elected in New Hampshire and one each in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Vermont in all these states, excepting Rhode Island, incumbent senators are Republican. Governors of all New England states presently Republican (excepting Roberts of Rhode Island) likewise face the voters next year.

The individual above all others the President probably wants re-elected is Sen. Saltonstall, chairman of the vital Senate Committee on Armed Services, and a faithful administration supporter in all respects.

While giving Mr. Eisenhower a plurality of 208,800 in 1952, Massachusetts voters knocked off, by a margin of 70,737 votes, Sen. Lodge, the man who managed Mr. Eisenhower's pre-convention campaign.

Also, President Eisenhower is anxious to see re-elected Gov. Herter, who squeaked in by a scant 15,000 over the two-term Democrat, Gov. Paul A. Dever. Far from being a weak link, however, Herter is rated a great gubernatorial success and a powerful drawing card for his party ticket.

Congressionally, Massachusetts Republicans may gain next year by reapportionment in a legislature which, for the first time in several years, is Republican-controlled in both houses. By altering district lines the Republicans hope to improve their prospects in three districts, the Eighth now held narrowly by Rep. Goodwin, Repu-

Good Crop of Corn Silk

BOSTON — The Massachusetts Department of Agriculture says there are about 160 feet of silk on an ear of corn—or about 300 miles per acre of corn.

It seems a bit silly to lay all the corn silks now growing in New England end to end, but if you do the department says—they'd make a cord nearly eight million miles long. Wait a minute, there's more.

That cord would be long enough to encircle the earth at the equator more than 250 times.

Deer or Cow

WEBBER, Kan. (UP)—They've tagged it a "dow" — but Tom Fulton and his son T. H. Fulton, Jewell County farmers don't know for sure whether the new calf is what it looks like, half deer and half calf.

The 80-pound animal, found frisking in a pasture, has fawn-like markings and is thin-legged though it otherwise resembles a calf.

While the Fultons report seeing deer with cows on their farm, livestock experts at Kansas State College say they don't believe cows and deer inter-breed.

U.S.S.R. Broadcast of the Series

"A Soviet sportswriter denounces 'beizbol' and the world series as a capitalistic sport controlled by monopolies hungry for gold and declares the game is sinking lower and lower because of the unresolved problems of a capitalistic society." (—News Item)

Ivan Upsydown, noted Soviet broadcaster, has been engaged by us to broadcast the series and has submitted a script for the opener:

"Fellow workers, we are here for the opening of the vicious monopolistic activity and decadent sport of the warmongering masses known as the beizbol world series.

"As the whole world knows, every phase of this contest is a blow at peace. Aggression features every moment.

"The teams engaged are the two which have no other claims except that of force and sheer power, having imposed their will on all other groups in the league and violently battled their way to the top.

"Fourteen other beizbol clubs are baited from the series, although they could use the money and prestige. They are excluded for no other reason than that they did not, by aggressive warlike conduct, smash down all others and make co-existence impossible.

"How did the Yankisks and Dodgeros get to the top? Money, influence, aggressive policies and scorn for peaceful settlements!

"The Yankisks are owned by Standard Oil, Tom Manville, the Rockefeller Foundation and Kayzee Stengloff, a Wall Street magnate.

"The Dodgeros are owned by Walter O'Mallski, a group of international bankers and John Foster Dulles.

"There is not a Red Chinese on either beizbol team as it enters the series and all pleas that neutrals be allowed to play shortstop and first base have been ignored. The effect of this on Asiatic opinion can be imagined.

"Many of the players on both teams have been purchased from other clubs over the years. They now wish to be repatriated, but are held in captivity and will be sent into the brutal series regardless of where they came from. What a game!

"In case of three strikes no long debate is permitted! And a man can be called out at first base without a two-thirds vote!

"Why must from four to seven games be staged instead of one decisive battle? Because of money madness, and the desire to impose longer hours on the downtrodden players and deaden the interest of the masses in the serious purposes of life.

"America uses beizbol as an opiate of the masses. In this opiate the peanut plays a sinister part. Millions of them are fed to American people. They do not eat them at any other time of the year.

"The capitalistic interests also employ the frankfurter and roll in this vicious campaign. The full forces of propaganda are used to make the people regard it as a public duty to consume these opiates.

"What is the effect? Before the first four innings are over, the people are a drugged, hysterical, wildly emotional mob deprived of reason.

"At the end of the contest they stagger from the parks so weak and weary that they are easy victims of capitalist exploitation. Their will to resist Wall Street is gone.

"Peoples of the world, the poor slaves of monopolistic beizbol are going onto the diamond now, and I call attention to the word 'diamond,' which reflects the inability of warmongers to differentiate between a sport and a symbol of riches. The umpires have just refused a settlement by round table. This will be a contest selfishly limited to those directly involved. (Associated Newspapers)

Pike Property Not Exempt, Board Decides

Tax Exempt Ruling Instructs 14 Counties To List Every Parcel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—The state board of tax appeals today said Ohio Turnpike Commission property is not exempt from taxation at the present time.

The board instructed auditors of the 14 counties through which the 241-mile toll road will run to place each parcel of real property bought by the commission on their general tax lists.

Last July 17 Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill ruled the General Assembly in setting up the turnpike commission exempted turnpike property from taxation.

The board's entry today informed auditors it has exclusive jurisdiction to exempt real property from taxation. It also said the commission can file tax exemption forms with the board, and the board will decide whether exemption should be granted.

While commission sources declined comment pending receipt of a copy of the entry, it was believed they in due time would formally seek tax exemption.

They were believed to feel the board's entry merely outlines what procedure should be followed.

Hunter Set for Squirrels Not Lions, Beats Retreat

CINCINNATI (U.S.)—County police were to search today for a lion in a wooded area northwest of Cincinnati where a squirrel hunter said he sighted the big game.

They were convinced William Fluellen, 39, was dead sober and serious when he saw the large animal yesterday.

Fluellen said the animal was identical with ones zoos and circuses have caged up. His first instinct was to use his 12 gauge shotgun but he thought he would be better off to run home and call the police.

Rita Hayworth, Crooner Haymes on Honeymoon

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U.P.)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes are on the fourth honeymoon for each of them today following a brief flash-bulb-lit wedding in a gambling resort hotel.

"I feel wonderfully happy," the red-haired bride said after the three-minute ceremony. "I am married to the man I really love. It sounds so wonderful to be called Mrs. Haymes."

The movie star and the crooner fly to New York Saturday and later to Philadelphia, where the bridegroom starts a night club engagement Monday night.

"Our careers, in fact nothing, will ever separate us," Rita declared. She said she'll travel with Haymes on his night club tour. They have rented a house in Greenwich, Conn. Miss Hayworth said she'll commute between there and Hollywood for one picture a year.

The ceremony was performed by Judge Frank MacNamee in the Gold Room of the Sands Hotel. Roulette games and slot machines continued whirling in the nearby casino.

Rita's two daughters, Rebecca, 8, by her marriage to actor Orson Welles, and Princess Yasmine, 3½, by ex-husband Al Khan, looked on from a divan.

The bride couple said their "I do's" firmly. Big tears came into Rita's eyes at the words. The double-ring ceremony was over before she got her ring on Dick's finger; she put it on afterward. Little Yasmine shrieked, "Mama, I want a ring, too."

Several hundred persons lined the way as the couple, arm in arm, walked from her quarters in a remote part of the hotel to the ceremony.

Miss Hayworth wore a short-sleeved, blue linen dress, a toast-colored tulle and velvet hat and matching gloves. Her bouquet was of orchids and lilies of the valley. Haymes wore a blue pin-stripe suit with blue tie.

Before her marriages to Welles and Prince Aly, Rita was wed to oilman Edward Judson. Haymes' previous wives were actress Joanne Dru, dancer Joanne Marshall, and Nora Flynn Haymes, ex-wife of Errol Flynn. The crooner got a Nevada divorce Wednesday from Nora, who obtained a California decree from him last week.

In connection with his immigration difficulties, meantime, the honeymooning crooner could take cheer from a federal court decision yesterday in Miami, Fla.

In a similar case at Miami, Judge John W. Holland ruled in Federal District Court that the return of Harry O. Voller, 62, former Miami Beach newspaper publisher, from Puerto Rico in 1951 "did not constitute an entry into the United States within the meaning of the 1917 Immigration Act."

Puerto Rico and Hawaii are insular possessions of the United States. Judge Holland held that "For a resident alien to make a reentry, he must go to a foreign port."

U.N. View

The U.N. holds that chances for coercion would be at a minimum in a crowd. Moreover, the U.N. view is based on the belief that the groups of 25 who have been together while in captivity are under the orders of their leaders and would resist repatriation to communism.

The U.N. Command says a prisoner should be allowed to refuse to go to the explanations on the ground that he already has made his choice and that any reversal must be done by "an overt" act on his part—that is, by applying to the repatriation commission for repatriation.

The U.N. Command has called on the repatriation commission to guarantee that no force, threat or affront to personal dignity be permitted and only Thursday the repatriation commission gave prisoners such assurances.

The temper of the nearly 8,000 North Korean and 14,600 Chinese anti-Red prisoners is such that some will resist efforts by the Communists to win them back and may even resist appearing for the explanations.

Most Are Chinese

Brig. Gen. A. E. Hamblen head of the Allied team of explainers, pointed out that three-fourths of the Chinese "volunteers" captured by the U. N. in Korea are among the 2,600 Red soldiers refusing repatriation.

"In the event these (anti-Communist) prisoners remain loyal to the cause of the free world during the period of explanations by the Communists, we feel that we will have won the psychological battle of our time."

"We hope and pray, that this is the last battle of the Korean conflict."

Hamblen has named the explanation period "Operation Freepatriate."

The 23 Americans, 1 Briton and 335 South Koreans listed by the Reds as refusing repatriation arrived at the demilitarized zone Friday, singing the "International" anthem of worldwide communism.

Murder Case

a case of such importance. A four-foot long iron pipe, supposedly used by the accused youth in beating the girl was recovered in a river in Delaware Wednesday.

Visited by Parents

Schinagle's parents and a minister from Mayfield Heights, a Cleveland suburb where the youth lived, visited him at the jail yesterday afternoon for about an hour and a half. After talking with their son, the parents went to the home of an Upper Sandusky minister, the Rev. Stanley McGilliard. Later the Schinagles returned to the jail, and in the meantime contacted Stansberry to defend their only son.

Stansberry, a native of Upper Sandusky, has practiced law here since 1931. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and the University of Cincinnati Law School. He served as representative from Wyandot County in the state legislature from 1943-46. He was deputy sheriff here from 1927-31 while his father, H. E. Stansberry was Wyandot sheriff. He is married and has one daughter, the wife of Upper Sandusky policeman Merle Courtard.

The 49-year-old lawyer was associated several years ago with Attorney F. J. Stalter in the defense of Roy Bower, accused of the shotgun slaying of his wife. Bower was convicted on a lesser degree and escaped the first degree murder sentence, the death penalty.

Evidence Found in Room

Evidence turned up by Sheriff McAllister in Cleveland yesterday included letters from Schinagle found in a room where Miss Pfeil had stayed before leaving Cleveland to go to Delaware. McAllister said the letters would be used in the trial to attempt to prove Schinagle planned the murder. A Cleveland policeman was quoted as saying that Schinagle wrote Cynthia inviting her to Delaware and telling her to keep her visit a secret.

At Delaware, Sheriff Earl Fravel said a search of the boy's room there where he was enrolled as an Ohio Wesleyan student, revealed that he had been writing "love letters" to a Wittenberg College girl, Carolyn Scheid, also of White Plains, N. Y. Just prior to the time the Pfeil girl was killed. Three of the letters were written to Schinagle by the Wittenberg co-ed and one of them was one Schinagle had written her but not mailed.

The three letters from the Wittenberg co-ed included one found under the sun visor of the car in which Schinagle carried the body of his sweetheart to the wooded area where she was discarded. The others were in the room he occupied while attending college at Delaware. Sheriff Fravel said he considered the letters from the Wittenberg student and the one from Schinagle "love letters."

Girls Were Classmates

Miss Scheid is reported to have told authorities that she wrote Schinagle in an effort to learn the whereabouts of Miss Pfeil. The two girls grew up together and were classmates at high school in White Plains.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Teachout, the family with whom Miss Pfeil stayed while she was in Mayfield Heights, Schinagle had beaten his sweetheart on previous occasions. Homicide Chief David E. Kurr said the slain White Plains girl returned home from a date a month ago with Schinagle with her lip cut and eye blackened. She was reported to have told Teachout that Schinagle has assaulted her in a burst of temper.

It had been to the Teachouts that the girl had turned in desperation when she went to Mayfield Heights to be near Schinagle. She was known as Cynthia Moorehouse to the Teachouts, the same name she used in finding employment in a Cleveland department store. She had kept in touch with the Teachouts after she had moved to a room nearer Schinagle's home.

Advised To See Minister

Cynthia confided the fact of her pregnancy to Mrs. Teachout and the Teachouts advised her to talk to the Rev. Harold Brown, minister of the Mayfield Methodist Church. On Tuesday night, Sept. 15, the girl visited the Teachouts to tell them she was going to Delaware the next night at Schinagle's invitation. She said she had memorized Rev. Brown's address because she was afraid of what would happen if Schinagle should find the address on her person.

If Roy found out that she had told anyone of her condition, she said, he would beat her up. She left an envelope containing the two letters given McAllister by Capt. Kerr and written by Schinagle from Delaware.

The first letter indicated Schinagle was reluctant to marry the girl. He wrote that he wanted her to know that under Ohio law, when a girl's age exceeded that of the boy, his responsibilities ceased where pregnancy was concerned. The second letter, dated Sept. 12, gave directions for reaching Delaware, telling her to bring all her clothes and money, and cautioning her not to tell anyone that she was joining him.

Stansberry said he was impressed with the straightforwardness of his young client.

He said Schinagle maintained he didn't know what he was going to do to Cynthia five minutes before he slugged and choked her in a deserted equipment shack at an athletic field on the Ohio Wesleyan campus. He said the boy "told me everything" and said Schinagle explained the secrecy because he feared their parents would interfere if they carried on their romance in the open. He said parents of them both objected to their marriage. He said they planned to go to Columbus next week to be married.

due to debate the controversial job rights question. This long standing problem of conflicting union claims for the right to perform various types of work has been disturbing labor relations for years.

It has caused innumerable strikes with employers usually powerless to do anything about the family quarrel between rival unions.

But it was considered doubtful the convention today would do anything concrete about establishing job-rights settlement machinery. An arbitration plan submitted by AFL building trades was slated to be referred to the AFL executive council for further study.

Former President Harry Truman participated in convention memorial services yesterday for the late AFL President William Green.

Youth on Bike Hurt in Mishap

Struck by Automobile, Suffers Cut on Leg

A young bicyclist was injured in one of three traffic accidents investigated during the last 24 hours by Marion police and state patrolmen.

Warren Wood Jr., 10, 127 E. Walnut St. received a cut left leg in an accident involving a car driven by Paul M. Adams, 38, of 427 Fies Ave. at W. Walnut St. and S. Prospect St. at 3:34 p.m. yesterday. Police reported both were westbound on W. Walnut St. and the car struck the bike from the rear. Warren was taken to a doctor's office for treatment of his injury.

Only other accident in the city occurred at 1:25 p.m. yesterday and involved a car driven south on N. State St. by Sgt. Howard G. Wheatcraft, 33, U. S. Army Recruiter and a truck driven east on E. Mill St. by Alfred Lee Walton, 31, of 628 Decatur St. There was damage to both vehicles but no injuries, police reported.

Truck Rolls Off Berm

One minor traffic accident was reported today by highway patrolmen of the Marion post. The accident happened on U. S. Route 22 about five miles south of Marion at 11:25 a.m. Thursday.

Lester T. Burah, 43, of Graytown failed to set the emergency brake on his truck after he was stopped by highway patrolmen. The truck was on a slight grade and rolled into a ditch tearing down some fencing. Owner of the fence was L. E. Mautz of near Marion.

Burah was uninjured, but the right front of his truck was slightly damaged. No arrest was made by the patrolman who had stopped the truck, but a warning was issued, patrol officials reported this morning.

The meeting was sponsored by the DeKalb Hatcheries eastern regional supervisor, Joseph Claybaugh who just joined the company recently. He makes his home in Marion.

Also present at the meeting were Harold Nolin, eastern region sales manager, and Ralph Thomas and W. R. Gould, both of the Sycamore, Ill. hatchery.

Ruling on Special Deputies Appealed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U.P.)—Frank H. Kearns, Franklin County prosecutor, has asked the state industrial relations commission for a rehearing on its ruling that a sheriff must pay death benefits of a special deputy.

The ruling is causing sheriffs throughout the state to revoke commissions of their special deputies so as not to be liable for paying them.

In Batavia, Sheriff Clyde Dericks canceled the appointments of 200 of Clermont County's special deputies. Sheriff Dan Tehen of Hamilton County said he would ask companies hiring specials to sign waivers of responsibility.

Sheriff Ralph Paul of Franklin County revoked 700 special commissions Wednesday.

These Days

The city of New York is probably the largest in all the world. New York houses the major economic interests of the country.

SOKOLSKY

Among 8,500,000 human beings, there should be a larger number of managers. New York undoubtedly contains an extraordinary large number. For instance, the best managed economic units in the United States, the United States Steel Corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Standard Oil Company of New York and New Jersey are situated in New York.

Nevertheless, the city is not completely managed. Despite local patriotism, which grows angry whenever such an obvious fact is mentioned, it is an unusually filthy city.

I travel a good deal and I have never seen an equally unkempt city. Yet it was, in my childhood, a clean and even beautiful place, except for a few slums.

UNDER LA GUARDIA, the city tried to become a welfare state, thus attracting families who prefer to live on relief to an astonishing number.

New slum areas were thus developed; even more, some of the finest streets have been reduced to slums. Yet a citizen, living under such conditions has the same kind of vote as one living on Fifth Avenue—the north end of which is now a blighted area.

The politicians try to hold such votes by doing small favors which in the aggregate reduce the financial stances of the city and benefit no one. New York is operating one of the largest railway systems—the subway. This requires managerial skill of the highest order. It requires a complete divorce from partisan politics. For years, the subway system was a political football until it was actually bankrupt.

Some efforts are now being made to operate it on a business-like basis, but with only small success. The kind of man who is willing to be New York's mayor is generally unfit by training and experience to handle so huge a problem.

FEW CITIZENS of outstanding capacity have presented themselves for this position in nearly 40 years. The last one was John Purroy Mitchel, who was mayor from 1914 to 1917.

The recent Democratic primaries disclosed all the weaknesses of a city in which 8,500,000 human beings live.

At first, a number of singularly incompetent politicians presented themselves for the nomination, including the present incumbent, Vincent Impellitteri.

None of the candidates possess managerial qualifications. The most competent public administrator the city has known for decades, Robert Moses, declines to run for mayor because he will not engage in a quarrel over religious, racial and sectarian issues—which is what these municipal campaigns are reduced to.

Robert Wagner Jr., who won the Democratic nomination, is the son of the senator who gave his name to the Wagner Act—a law that Lee Pressman, who had admitted that he once was a Communist, wrote for him.

Beck, easily one of the two most influential men at this gathering

By George Sokolsky

THE JUNIOR Wagner is a personable gentleman but he lacks managerial experience. He is in a political partnership with Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., whose greatest claim is that he is not only his father's son but bears his name.

The junior Roosevelt aspires to become governor of the state of New York, in imitation of his father's emergence to the presidency. While handsome, affable, even gay, the junior Roosevelt possesses no managerial skill. He is no more fit to be governor of the huge state of New York than he would be to manage the United States Steel Corporation.

Yet, should Wagner be elected mayor and come into control of the decadent Tammany Hall, the junior Roosevelt might be nominated as governor and even elected, a sorry successor to the administratively competent Dewey.

THE FACT is that too large a part of the better population of New York that works there, lives outside the city limits. Also, many who continue to live in this large city have lost interest in its political affairs. They have thrown up their hands in disgust and distress.

Thus, too many of those who have a vested interest in the prosperity, competent management of the city, and the orderly processes of municipal administration, do not vote in its elections and play no part in its politics.

In a way, this is understandable because it grows increasingly difficult to vote at all, to make a choice between Mr. Nobody and Mr. Nothing.

Therefore, one stops voting. It is all wrong, but it is understandable.

Junior Steer Show and Sale Slated Oct. 9

Members of 4-H and FFA Groups in Six Counties Have Entries

A total of 91 head of cattle will be auctioned off at the sixth annual Marion Junior Steer Show and Sale, which will be held this year during the afternoon and evening of Friday, Oct. 9.

As usual, the event will be held at the stockyards of the Marion Livestock Producers Cooperative Association, located at the end of W. Center St.

Among the animals to be sold that day are the grand champion and reserve champion steers of the junior division of the Marion County Fair, held last month. These will be shown by their owners, Don McCloy of Claridon, who has the grand champion steer, and Gene Isler of Prospect, who owns the reserve champion.

Other Entries

Besides animals from Marion County entries have been received from five neighboring counties. Animals will be sent from Knox, Morrow, Crawford, Hardin, and Delaware Counties.

Buyers from many of the nationally-known meat packing companies will be present to bid for the animals. Also bidding for some of the choice meat will be market buyers from the Marion area and individuals who own freezers and can process their own meat.

The sale will be held in the evening, with bidding scheduled to begin at 7.30. A showmanship contest will be conducted in the afternoon. This will be similar to the ones conducted at the county fair in August.

These trophies will be awarded to participants in the afternoon event. One will go to the owner of the grand champion steer of the show; another to the reserve champion; and the third to the winner of the showmanship contest. Local merchants are sponsoring the trophies.

Entries Closed

Elwood Parrott of the Agricultural Extension Service, which is handling the details of the afternoon show, reported today that entries closed Monday for the affair.

He added that cattle sold in the auction usually brought a slightly higher price than ordinary beef. He said it was usually one or two cents per pound higher than market prices.

All steers sold in this event are projects sponsored by 4-H Club and FFA Chapter members. Money from the sale of animals is given to the persons who owned them.

Judging the showmanship contest in the afternoon will be Robert Royer of Farm Management Inc. in Irwin, O. The auctioneer for the sale will be named at a later date.

James Smoot, sales manager of the Producers will handle the details of the sale.

Entries have been taken in three different sections. There are individual entries, groups of three, and groups of five. Parrott said calves need not be shown in the afternoon, but may be sold in the evening as commercial cattle.

500 Cops in Boston Put in Overtime For Ike but No Pay

BOSTON — Those cops who put in overtime during President Eisenhower's visit last Monday did it for free, they learned to their chagrin today.

Division Commanders recorded more than 500 men for overtime in payrolls submitted last night.

Headquarters sent them back with orders to delete the overtime. In 1950 city auditor John Fox ruled overtime could be paid, under state law, only for parades, elections, marathons, annual listings of residents, and public celebrations sponsored by the city.

The President's visit was sponsored by the Republican Party and there was no formal parade.

Fox was in Montreal and unavailable for comment.

Inside Labor

ST. LOUIS President Eisenhower is personally directing the strategy of heading off the AFL's drive to paint him and his administration as prisoners of a "greedy few" business tycoons.

It was the President himself who asked Vice President Nixon to fly to the AFL's 72nd convention here — and tell its leaders in private breakfast and luncheon sessions that the resignation of Marty Durkin will not turn the White House anti-labor.

Gen. Eisenhower told Nixon to pass on word that the famous revisions of the Taft-Hartley law are still very much under consideration and that a compromise deal can be worked out. After all, he told Nixon, there was considerable agreement inside the White House before Durkin quit.

IN CONVERSATIONS between Eisenhower and his vice-president the name of Harold Stassen came up frequently as successor to Durkin in the labor secretary cabinet spot.

Both Nixon and the President were for the appointment, but were not certain whether Stassen could be ripped out of the foreign operations administrative (MSA) post just yet.

That will depend on whether or not this activity abroad will be cut back even more in the next few weeks.

Stassen is no stranger to the labor leaders. He was with Mr. Eisenhower when the President, as a candidate, lunched with the AFL executive council just a year ago at the Federation's convention in

New York. At that time, Stassen was considered the liaison with the labor men and the Eisenhower headquarters.

Ike's strategy in using his vice president is to have Nixon draw the lightning from himself and the White House—and Nixon is perfectly agreeable to take the potshots.

APPARENTLY the strategy has succeeded, at least for a while. The powerful Teamsters Brotherhood, led by Dave Beck, is needing Nixon, but working with Eisenhower behind the scenes.

And nowhere in George Meany's opening speech, his literally throbbing debut as president-chairman of an AFL convention, was there an attack on President Eisenhower.

Meany blasted big business and Congress, but not Ike, in a dramatically set speech in the party's opening hours.

The husky AFL chief spoke most of the time with his eyes on one rank-and-file delegate sitting at a front row table directly beneath him. The delegate's name is Martin Durkin.

THE POLITICAL nature of this convention is reflected by the manner in which the AFL leaders have surrounded Nixon, by the way Durkin spoke the afternoon before Nixon and Harry Truman the next day.

There is no doubt that George Meany will continue to blast Congress and big business, but he wants no real knock-down fight with the President right now for a very good reason.

Behind the scenes of this tense convention the AFL is split down the middle—with several of the powerful unions opposed to Meany.

This opposition is led by the Teamsters president, Dave

Beck, easily one of the two most influential men at this gathering

IN MEANY'S opening speech, the new AFL chief took a swipe at Beck, which seems to me to be as portentous, though not as violent, a moment as when John L. Lewis slugged big Bill Huteson at the AFL's 1935 convention, thus launching the CIO.

To observers it appeared that Meany slapped at Beck by indirectly accusing him of leading a "civil war" inside the AFL. Insiders know that Beck will definitely not make his peace with either the CIO or other unions which have teamsters in their membership, regardless of what Meany and the AFL do on "peace" pacts.

BECK'S NAME wasn't mentioned, but many of the 650 delegates had no doubt of what Meany meant when he said:

"This organization (the AFL) was not formed as a battleground for competing trade unions. We must be thinking of ending the civil war inside and outside of the AFL. There is no excuse for squandering hundreds of thousands of dollars of trade union money in a battle for a few members on the grounds that trade union jurisdiction is involved."

THUS, IN THE blunt fashion with which Meany once challenged John Lewis, Meany now takes on Dave Beck.

Beck will retaliate, first by urging that Lewis be taken back into the AFL, and then by continuing to build his Teamsters as his powerful brotherhood sees fit.

That will affect virtually every business in the U. S.—and Beck will not join in any all-out fight on President Eisenhower.

So the AFL is divided politically, new Teamsters president, Dave

Beck, easily one of the two most influential men at this gathering

William Paley, wife of the radio and TV tycoon, a great American beauty and a perennial best-dressed, was every bit as chic when she was a working girl, says this designer.

"She never pretended to have money in those days," Miss Parnis recalled. "She was never wasteful or extravagant and she always bought with long wear in mind. She has always had a flair for wearing what is best for her, a gift which has nothing to do with money."

Husbands Note

I present in this corner today a remarkable woman to whom American husbands may well erect a monument after pondering the wisdom of her words.

Mollie Purris, one of the nation's most successful dress designers, says:

1 — "Any woman over 20 years of age who wants to look like the cover on a fashion magazine ought to consult a psychiatrist, and

2 — "Any woman crazy enough to throw all her clothes away and buy a new wardrobe every season ought to be locked up."

THESE ARE immortal words on a par with Fred Allen's recent observation that some American husbands ought to go to Paris and shorten Dor.

But to get back to Miss Parnis! This designer says that no change in fashion should ever be so radical that this season's dress can't slide into next season and get lost in the mob.

"The great knack is to make the 1949 model look like 1954," said Miss Parnis, a petite and pretty woman in a tweed suit that looked like the day after tomorrow, but which she identified as strictly from 1952.

Ace Director Feels TV Will Boost Movie Quality

By HERB ALTSCHULL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Ella Kazan, award-winning Broadway and Hollywood director, said today there's a chance that television may raise motion picture standards—"but I rather doubt it."
"Too much censorship," he said. "Too many people telling you what to do."
On the other hand, Kazan continued in an interview:
"Television is certain to make movies more spectacular, more technologically perfect. And that is good. No art ever was hurt by technical improvements."
Hollywood people may brush off TV, Kazan said, but:
"Deep in their hearts, they're scared to death."
"Did you know that Jack Warner (the Hollywood producer) won't even allow a TV set to show up on the screen in his pictures?"
Kazan is in Washington to direct the pre-Broadway performances of "Tea and Sympathy," a new play by Robert Anderson. Kazan, a first-rate actor, is best remembered for his direction of the stage and screen versions of "A Streetcar Named Desire."
He says he doesn't go much for TV dramatic fare, but:
"I like the fights and ball games. I think they're wonderful."
Kazan said the film industry's counterattack with such things as three-dimensional movies, giant

Bible Words to Live by

ROMANS 8:32 — He who spared not His own Son, but gave Him up for us all, will He not with Him freely give us all things?

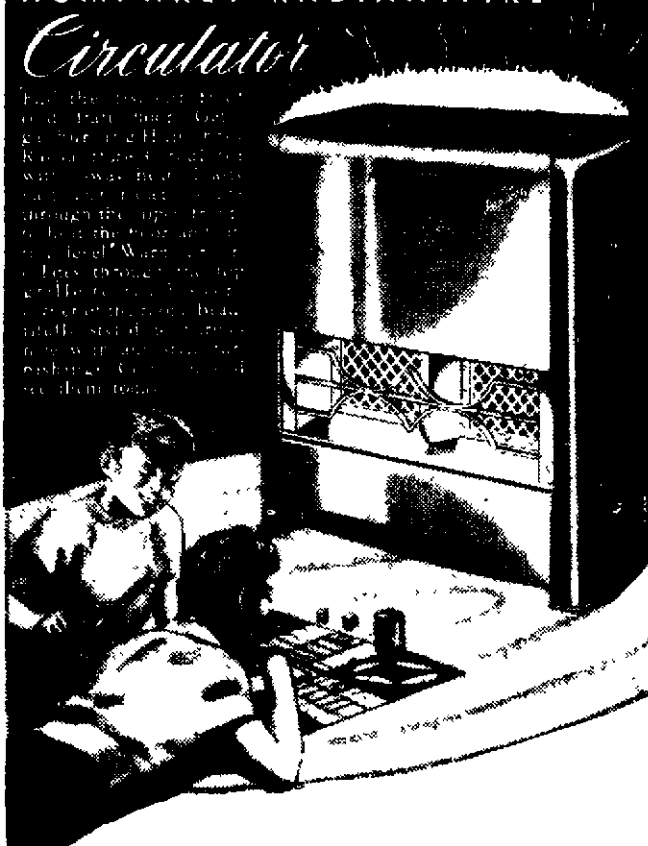

In this beautiful word we are brought face to face with the eternal love of God the Father. That love breaks upon us like a heavenly deluge. He loved so much that His own Son was not held back when the moment of supreme sacrifice came. His most precious possession was given to prove His love. In the light of this gift to guarantee my salvation, how glorious it is to rejoice that all my other needs will be supplied from this same generous hand. No want of mine can possibly be too great for One who has triumphantly demonstrated His love for me. He loves me now. He will freely give now. He will always be the divine Lover who will delight to give. What sublime assurance! Hallelujah! What a Saviour!

Papers Losing Local Contact, Editor Warns

ONA Hears Seltzer Of Cleveland Press; Name Award Winners

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The editor of the Cleveland Press says newspapers are losing contact with their readers.
Louis B. Seltzer urged the Ohio Newspaper Assn. to return to reporting activities on the community level. He spoke at the organization's annual convention last night.
Wire services, syndicated columnists and departmental features have crowded local news out of many papers, he said. Now is the time for newspapers to "get close to the people," he added.
Gov. Frank J. Lausche also spoke.
Today's program includes a publishers' breakfast, a business meeting, and talks and conferences in both the weekly and daily fields.
There will be a photography clinic in the afternoon.
Winners of the Governor's Awards for the Advancement of Ohio's Prestige presented last night were:
Charles E. Wilson, secretary of defense in the Eisenhower cabinet, a native of Minerva, Ohio.

Chocolate Desserts Are Ever Popular

Entire Family Will Love These Crisp Cookies, Mocha Pudding

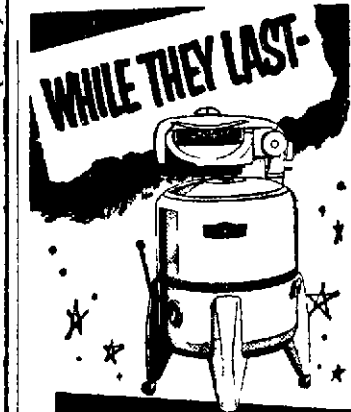

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Your kids will love these chocolate cookies. They're the nearest thing we know to the chocolate candy bar with crisp crunchy rice cereal in it that small fry adore. And they're so easy to make!

In our directions for preparing the cookies, we suggest that you drop the cookie batter by level tablespoonfuls; this way you get a really substantial-sized cookie. But on the occasions when you are not putting them in the cookie jar for the kids' after-school snacks, but are serving them to the grownups with evening coffee, you might want to make them a little smaller. Another tip: oldsters will like a pecan garnish on the cookies, but for the younger generation, you can leave them plain or decorate with pieces of semi-sweet chocolate or bits of cherry.

And while we're on the subject of chocolate desserts, here's one with a sophisticated twist—a chocolate pudding with a mocha sauce. This is one of those interesting recipes that has its sauce baked right along with its cake-like base. Garnish the puddings with walnuts, toasted almonds or shredded moist coconut after they come out of the oven, then gild them with a drift of sweetened whipped cream and you'll have something! Sure, this pudding's rich, but oh my, how good it tastes!

Juvenile Cowboy's Big Worry: Don't Tell Roy of Theft

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy's day dreams of being just like the cowboys was shattered yesterday.

A one-man, blue-clad, pistol-packing posse pricked the bubble. Last month, the boy, realizing a cowboy had to have boots, called at a shoe shop. He found just what he wanted but the shop's manager said the boots belonged to a customer.

That night, someone wriggled through a cross-barred rear window of the shop and took the boots. Then, a policeman got a tip. He questioned the boy.

Yes, the boy said, he'd rustled the boots.

He was willing to return them, on one condition.

"Don't tell Roy Rogers," he said.

You can SEE why a McCormick drill seeds more accurately

Look closely at the fluted feed on a McCormick grain drill. Notice that the feed roll turns freely on a full-length bearing. This prevents binding or wobbling—assures precision seeding even after long use. Take off one of the blades on a McCormick double-disk opener. Notice the exclusive front seed delivery. Seed is carried to the bottom of the seed trench by the movement of the disk. This guarantees even depth planting at any speed. Look closely at a McCormick drill, and you'll find dozens of little differences in design that make a big difference in accuracy, dependability, and durability. Stop in for firsthand proof of McCormick drill superiority the next time you're in town.

Robert A. Taft Jr. Is Non-Committal Over Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Everybody seems to know about whether I'll run for senator except me," Robert A. Taft Jr. of Cincinnati told an acquaintance here the other day. He attended the swearing-in of I. Jack Martin as White House administrative assistant. Martin was aide to Taft's father for nine years.

One person with whom young Taft talked said he got the idea that he "is toying with the thought" of trying for senator.

Aides of Sen. Bricker didn't find out about the high veterans administration job that Ralph Stoneston, Ill., national recording secretary, said last year Americans spent a billion dollars for church activity, 2½ billion for public assistance, 8 billion for education, and 9½ billion for alcoholic beverages.

"Sen. Taft felt so strongly about Stone that he took his recommendation to the White House personally," said Bricker aide John McElroy. "He and Bricker wanted Stone to have the top VA job, but this is fine, too."

St. Mary Prepares for Rugged Lima St. Rose Team

Irish After Second Win In Game Saturday Night

By GARY SAMS

Coach Ray Robbins is preparing his St. Mary gridders for a rough assignment here Saturday night. The Irish meet Lima St. Rose. Ray is hoping Mike Anderson, halfback, will be ready for St. Mary's second game of the season. Anderson is suffering from a toe injury suffered following the Fostoria preview in a scrimmage. Bob Campton has a bad ankle and John Kelly is suffering from a leg injury. But Ray believes both will be ready for action Saturday. Campton is a regular guard and Kelly a first string tackle.

With Butch Merchant halfback out for the season Ray said the halfback slot would probably be filled by Anderson John Messenger and Ted Kilbury.

Roger Michel will be at quarterback and Larry Ryan at fullback. Pat O'Connor and Don Shoemaker will be at ends; Kelly and Ed Quinn at tackles; Jerry Ballenger and Campton at guards, and Jack Schmitzler at center.

St. Rose, which last year downed the locals handily and wound up with a 4-4 season, has all its regulars back and is expecting a much better season. Their backfield is reported to be the fastest in the school's history.

St. Rose's starting backfield will have Ron Klaus, 170, at quarterback; Ernie Bonanno 150, and Ronnie Bonanno 140 at halfbacks; and Don Hurlinger, 180, at fullback.

Ends will be Tom Cunningham, 155 and Mel Williams, 185. Dan Gast 200, and Dan Pentenberg 210, will be at tackles. Dick Cattleman, 155, and Jack Rankin 165 at guards; and Bill Henne, 160 at center.

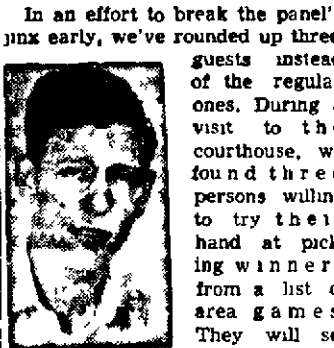

In St. Rose's opener last week the Bonanno brothers and Hurlinger ran circles around Wayne's field. Ernie Bonanno scored on runs of 39, 57 and 7 yards. Hurlinger went 60 yards for a score and Ronnie Bonanno went six yards for the other tally, in a 32-0 rout.

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

Last year the Star's panel of Guessperts took a lot of ribbing when 'upsets' marred the area football scene.

SHORT

In an effort to break the panel's jinx early, we've rounded up three guests instead of the regular ones. During a visit to the courthouse, we found three persons willing to try their hand at picking winners from a list of area games. They will set the pattern for regular panelists who will take over next week.

Harding High School is picked as a unanimous favorite to dump Bowling Green in a Buckeye League encounter tonight while St. Mary polled three votes to whip Lima St. Rose. Other unanimous choices are Kenton over St. Mary, Shelby over Galion, Big Walnut over Mt. Gilead and Utica over Cardington.

Guests include Walter Guthrie, clerk for the Marion County commissioners; Bill Roberts, head of the photostatic room at the courthouse; and Tom Kirwin, salesman for an oil company.

The 11 games on the list are Bowling Green at Harding Lima St. Rose at St. Mary, Kenton at St. Marys, Upper Sandusky at Willard, Galion at Shelby, Marysville at Richwood, Big Walnut at Mt. Gilead, Norwalk at Bucyrus, Bellevue at Crestline, Utica at Cardington and Elm Valley at Johnstown.

WALTER GUTHRIE - Harding St. Mary, Kenton Upper Sandusky, Shelby, Marysville, Big Walnut, Bucyrus, Crestline, Utica and Johnstown.

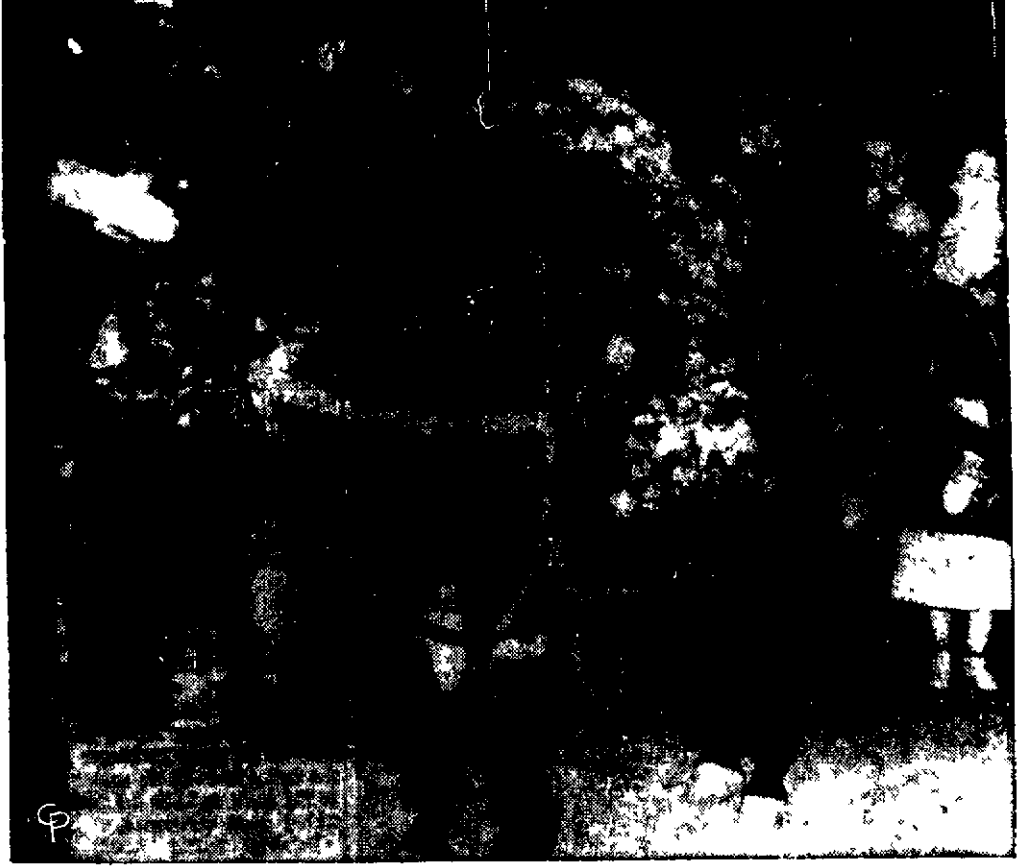

BILL ROBERTS - Harding Lima St. Rose, Kenton Upper Sandusky, Shelby, Richwood, Big Walnut, Bucyrus, Crestline, Utica and Elm Valley.

TOM KIRWIN - Harding St. Mary, Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Shelby, Marysville, Big Walnut, Norwalk, Crestline, Utica and Elm Valley.

JOHN SHORT - Harding, St. Mary, Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Shelby, Marysville, Big Walnut, Bucyrus, Bellevue, Utica and Elm Valley.

Missing tonight's battle will be Hank Rinnert, regular linebacker and Phil Luke, a sophomore back. He is out for the season with a chipped pelvic bone, he probably will be hospitalized for about three weeks.

Doug Bibler, offensive and defensive back, might be ready for part time duty tonight. Fred Price, regular defensive halfback will probably miss the game tonight. Both are shaking off ankle injuries.

KEYSTONER LOCKS UP FOUR-HEAT JUG. Keystone, wearing a wreath of flowers, poses proudly in the winner's circle with his driver, Frank Ervin, after his victory in the Little Brown Jug, world's richest three-year-old pacing classic in the first four heat event since the inaugural in 1946. Keystone, first Ohio winner in the Delaware, O. classic won the third and fourth heats. His total winnings gave Keystone a total of $21,255.92 for the jug.

Keystoner First From Ohio To Take Brown Jug Classic

By FRITZ HOWELL

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—A brown coat which wrote a storybook finish to yesterday's Little Brown Jug, was hailed today as the best of the country's three-year-old pacers.

Apparently hopelessly out of it after losing the first two heats of the $54,971.20 classic, Cleveland's George H. Tippling's speedy and durable Keystoner grabbed the third mile dash and then defeated the two other heat winners in an extra jump to pick up $21,255.92.

It was the first four heat Jug since the inaugural in 1946, and it wasn't settled until deep dusk had fallen over the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile track.

The sterling son of Hal Dale-Lata Long the pre-race favorite finished sixth in the first heat but was only a length back of Hillsota owned by F. R. McNabb of Ithaca, Mich., as that horse took the second.

Newport Chief sidwheeled star of the Newport Stock Farm of Fairfield N. J. took the opening dash, with Hillsota second, and it looked as if one of them would wrap it up in the third heat. Newport Chief led all the way to the head of the stretch and Hillsota stormed from far back and headed for the wire.

But Keystoner under the expert guidance of veteran Frank Ervin leading Grand Circuit driver of 1952 from Aiken S. C. broke out of the pack to nip Hillsota by a neck in a great stretch drive.

The three heat winners came back for the big one with an extra $10,994.44 going to the winner. The first three heats had been timed in 2:02 3-5, 2:03 3-5, but the pacers slowed up for the last one as they jockeyed for position.

Newport Chief took the lead with Keystoner second and Hillsota third as they hugged the rail for the first half mile in 1:08 3-5. They went the final mile in 1:01, and Keystoner was going away, a length ahead of Newport Chief, as they went under the wire. Hillsota broke out 50 yards from the finish and was five lengths away.

Keystoner thus became the first Ohio-owned horse to win the fixture and Ervin became the third driver to win it twice. Other two time winners were Del Cameron who piloted Newport Chief to second yesterday and Wayne (Curry) Smart of Delaware who piloted Dutch Dandy to eighth place in yesterday's first heat and then drew the horse.

Buckeye Gridders Ready For Hoosiers, Says Hayes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"We're as ready as well ever be," Ohio State grid Coach Woody Hayes said today as he and his hopefuls awaited tomorrow's opening Big Ten clash with Indiana.

The Buckeye-Hoosier clash scheduled at 2 p. m. in the huge Ohio Stadium is the feature of a 19-game weekend schedule which sends 29 of the state's college squads into action.

Indiana is the only game on our schedule right now," Hayes said. "We know that Bernie Crummins (Indiana coach) has a better team, especially at running, than he had a year ago—but outside of knowing that, we're flying blind."

He explained the "flying blind" by saying all of last year's scouting reports on the Hoosiers had to be tossed aside because of Hoosier personnel changes and the outlawing of the two-platoon system. A year ago Ohio defeated Indiana 33-13, after being deadlocked 11-13 at the start of the fourth period.

Hayes said the Bucks would hold a short warm-up session today and then rest. The Hoosiers were due to arrive by plane at noon and they too had a signal drill on the field.

Tom Miller, publicity director for the invaders, sounded optimistic as he warned "Our boys aren't coming over here to take a licking. Two years ago the Hoosiers upset the Bucks here by 30-12 after not being conceded a pre-game chance."

Along with the Western Conference inaugural expected to attract some 75,000 fans, the weekend slate calls for two games in the Mid-American Conference—one in the Mid-Ohio, and three in the Ohio Conference. Eight of the 19 will be night contests.

The schedule today: Fort Belvoir (Va.) at Kent State. Tomorrow: Indiana at Ohio State; Toledo at Western Reserve; Bowling Green at Miami, Friday at Bluffton (tn), Akron at Wittenburg (tn), Heidelberg at Muskingum (tn), Ohio Wesleyan at Otterbein, Case Tech at Mount Union (tn), Cincinnati at Marquette (tn), Baldwin Wallace at John Carroll (tn), Wilmington at Centre (tn), Fairleigh Dickinson at Defiance (tn), Ohio Northern at Capital, Washington & Jefferson at Denison, Youngstown at Scranton, Marietta at Grove City, and Central State at Morgan State.

Sunday: Dayton at Xavier.

Brutal Beating Ends La Starza's Hopes

ROCKY CATCHES UP WITH LA STARZA IN THE 11TH. Draped on the ropes like a wet bath towel, Roland La Starza tries weakly to get back in the ring after heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano felled him in the 11th round of their title fight in New York's Polo Grounds before an estimated 40,000 fans. La Starza, battered and bleeding, climbed back to the ring a short while later, but referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the fight. The TKO came at 1:31 for Rocky's 45th consecutive victory.

Marciano Defends Crown With TKO in 11th Round

NEW YORK (AP) — Roland La Starza had the heart but Rocky Marciano had the guns, and so the human block of granite from Brockton, Mass., still holds the heavyweight championship of the world today.

Few fighters in the annals of the cruel sport have taken a more brutal beating than the ex-collegian from the Bronx absorbed last night before Referee Ruby Goldstein stepped in midway of the 11th round at the Polo Grounds and cried enough. Outclassed and almost defenseless for the final four rounds, LaStarza had done all that could have been asked of him.

Today, just a year and two days since he pulverized Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia to win the title, Marciano stands a colossus, a serious contender, the Rock has no rival of real stature. He must be accepted as one of the great champions.

He proved last night before an awestruck crowd of 44,562 that there is nothing to hold him off once he starts moving forward and throwing those oaken arms of his. LaStarza tried. He fought back as long as he was physically possible and he tried every stratagem he knew. He made it close for six rounds. Then the roof began caving in on him.

Early in the 11th and fatal round, Rocky rushed his bleeding rival against the ropes and with a lethal succession of left-right-left swings to the jaw slammed LaStarza to the canvas for the first knockdown of the fight. LaStarza rose on his trembling legs well before the count of nine, but as Goldstein wiped his gloves clean and sent him forth again it was evident that the challenger had made his bid and failed.

Again the Rock barreled in, throwing both fists with all he had, apparently as fresh and relentless as he had been in the opening round. When it was evident that LaStarza could not defend against the furious attack, Goldstein leaped to save him. The beaten man stared dully, blood frothing on his lips, and made no dissent.

For nearly four full rounds before that the crowding, relentless champion had been in full charge. He first had hurt LaStarza seriously in the seventh when he slugged him into the ropes and for the last two minutes pounded the hapless challenger all over the ring almost without a return. Only LaStarza's fighting spirit enabled him to weather the punishment.

The eighth, ninth and tenth rounds followed much the same pattern.

For all that LaStarza will go into the big book only as a game boy who thought he could lick Marciano and learned that the job was beyond him. But he gave the great crowd which paid $435,817.33 a few thrills before he was felled. He was as unfrightened as he had promised he would be.

ASSOCIATION PLAYOFF

Officials Hold Annual Session

A total of 75 officials, coaches, school superintendents and guests from Marion, Morrow, Hancock, Wyandot and Crawford Counties attended the annual fall meeting of the Mid-Ohio basketball officials Association Thursday night at the Joe Cox home east of Caledonia. A steak fry was held.

It was announced a basketball officials school would begin Oct. 7 at the YMCA and continue for five weeks. Purpose of the meetings are to check interpretations of basketball rules. Officers will be elected at the first meeting.

Basketball officials from this area are invited to attend the meetings.

Vern Miller, who was in charge of the meeting, told the group the association's goal was to have a better relationship between officials and schools. The group went on record as saving coaches and superintendents treated officials well in their work in the past. Things necessary in a well of-freighted game coaches at the meeting pointed out, were knowledge of the rules, consistency, knowing the mechanics of the game, forcefulness, poise, keeping the game under control, 20-20 vision, a good general appearance, quick blowing of the whistle to stop possible injury and to keep up with the game.

Morrall Wins 9-8 Over Mt. Victory

Morrall edged Mt. Victory 9-8 in eight innings Thursday at Morrall as John Craycraft drove in the winning run with his only hit of the game. He punched out a double to score Clyde Neal, who had walked.

Junior Bell and Charles Rice formed the Morrall battery. Bell surrendered only three hits, fanned nine and walked 10. Jolliff, Furer, and McKinley toiled for the losers, giving up six hits and striking out 10 batters. Guider was the Mt. Victory catcher.

Rice had two doubles and Shifflet a double for Morrall. Guider collected a pair of singles and Furer hit a double for the losers. Morrall was charged with seven errors, Mt. Victory with four.

Vice Presidents Roll by Galion For 40-0 Win

HARDING High School's reserve grid team blasted Galion's reserves 40-0 Thursday in a game at Galion. The Vice Presidents racked up 12 points in the first period, 8 in the second, 13 in the third and a single touchdown in the fourth.

Don Caprino and Bill Black teamed up to get the Harding team off to a flying start. Caprino blocked a Galion punt in the first period and Black scooped up the ball and went 15 yards to score. Harding's second score came when Quarterback Harold Jones skirted left end for 50 yards. Keith Thackery tackled Newell in the end zone for a Harding safety in the second period and Jones scored again, this time on a

Cross Country Meet Delayed

The cross country track meet between Harding and Mansfield scheduled for Thursday afternoon was cancelled when the Mansfield runners failed to show up for the meet.

Harding Coach Ken Somerlot said today the Tygers failed to appear due to a mix-up in their schedule. A two-year contract calling for four meets, two in each city, was signed but Mansfield officials apparently were confused over the location of yesterday's meet. The event has been tentatively rescheduled for Nov. 3.

The Prexy cross country team, defending state champion, will open its season next Tuesday against Worthington at the York Country Club in Worthington.
